Please Tell Me

By CYNTHIA

To "Discouraged"

Would Apologize

Scause They Have Acquired It From Some Older Woman, but if They Do Not Drop It They Will Be Embittered Unnecessarily

OF COURSE, they were suffering WHY should she hate "men"? Why should she long to hurt "men"? they wouldn't have taken such blood-thirsty delight in their dread utter-

Indeed that very same evening when grown-up.
Why, she hasn't had time to begin anything else. But Blue Gingham and Pink Linen are members of a certain type who somehow or other absorb a distorted idea of life and think it is clever to hate everything masculine.

They are usually the ones who call boys of from sixteen on "men."

ich men have brought them.

And the older women who try to give Unable to take out their anger upon her an unnatural, unhealthy viewpoint the causes of it, they make listening are doing her a great wrong.

THEY were talking about "men." as they sat lazily swinging in the hammock gazing out over the slope of the lawn to the gleaming river beyond.

One wore blue and white gingham, the other pink linen, and they were about the same age.

"I hate men," said Blue Gingham, enthusiastically "They're all alike."

Pink Linen drew a long breath of contentment. "So do I." she agreed.

Blue Gingham pulled out a hair pin to catch up a dropped stitch.

"I just love to hurt men." she announced venomously. "It pays them back for what they do."

And Pink Linen beamed. "Um, so do I!" she replied, giving the hammock a fresh start with a vigorous push.

They were about eighteen.

That isn't her thought; it is something that she has heard an older woman say, and she thinks it sounds smart and they went to a dance at the hotel near their summer home. Blue Gingham was introduced to a strange "man" of at should learn to hate them now or later. introduced to a strange "man" of at least twenty; and she didn't behave at all as if she thought he was just exactly like all the other boys she knew!

And Pink Linen went out on the porch to look at the moon with another of the despised species, just as if she had no desire in the world to hurt him or anything else.

Concerned, there's no reason why she should learn to hate them now or later. If some girls are unfortunate in the kind of men they know, other men and other girls need not be embittered by it. Pink Linen and Blue Gingham are just silly little girls now, stepping into life and taking up all the fads and no the supplied of the various upon the porch of the various needs to be a strange of the various girls need not be embittered by it. tions of the various ages they pass through.

But they had better realize that affecting this attitude of bitterness toward all men is not just a fad; it's a dangerous practice which will land them in middle or early life soured and dis-contented, having reached a state of disillusion just because they have had no illusions or faith to cling to.

SomeBody has given them a viewpoint that is prejudiced to start

IT ISN'T necessary to be how crazy to avoid this, but it is always necessary will to keep a wholewith.

Older women, who are what they call

"distillusioned," often talk to young girls about real and imagined troubles

A avoid this, but it is always necessary for every young girl to keep a wholesome, unprejudiced outlook on life as see is growing up.

THE HOME IN GOOD TASTE By Harold Donaldson Eberlein

The Woman's Exchange

Bleaching Silk Scarf

To the Editor of Woman's Page: Dear Madam—I have a white linen

Has Dull Hair

A FAITHFUL READER.

Only three more of these letters for marking Hnen; have you kept a collection of them so that you'll have them when you need them?

A. B. C. D appeared on June 8.

E. F. G. H on June 12, J. K. L. M on June 19, N. O. P. Q on June 26 and R. S. T. U on July 8. The back papers can be obtained at the Circulation Department on the second floor of the Ledger Building, 606 Chestnut street

By JEAN NEWTON Heed the Beginnings!

Through a

Woman's Eyes

I heard a story the other day of a small boy who, being dared by his playmates, ate a bug. He survived. tried it again, and before long was making a business of it for horrified spectators. He wound up as one of the freaks in a circus.

And it all started with a little boy's taking a dare to eat one bug!

Caroline, the daughter of a good

This reminded me of a girl named

And just so, many gnarled oaks from little acorns grow.

Many a wreck of character is the direct result of a little induigence that was not nipped in the bud. Destroyed health is frequently the outcome of a are fraught with danger as the beginning of a bad habit or the first step edy on a downward road.

If we are vigilant to nip in the bud all dangerous starts we need never fear unfortunate finishes.

Can You Tell? By R. J. and A. W. Bodmer

Whether Growing Things Add to the Weight of the Earth

The growth of children into men and to the Editor of Woman's Page: women, or of trees and plants and and male into their full size, even though they double their own weight several times in the process, does not increase the weight of the earth a single ounce. Neither does rain or a heavy fail of snow increase the weight of the earth, even though the snow in one spot, say on a roof, is sufficiently heavy to crush in the structure.

Now I was sorry that I hadn't given the male into their full size, even though the size, even though the snow in one spot, say on a roof, is sufficiently heavy to crush in the structure.

Now I was sorry that I hadn't given the male into their full size, even though the size, even though the snow in one spot, say on a roof, is sufficiently heavy to crush in the structure.

Now I was sorry that I hadn't given the matter more consideration. In the city Norman's delinquencies would not have been noticed. I would have been able to hide them from every one, while there I would be conscious of the fact in the matter more consideration. In the city Norman's delinquencies would not have been noticed. I would have been able to hide them from every one, while there I would be conscious of the fact of work and a dull the matter more consideration. In the mater more consideration. In the matter more consideration. In the mater more consideration. In the matter more consideration. In the mater more consideration.

This is so because the things we ent to make us grow and the things the plants and other animals live upon, causing them to grow heavier, have been on the earth in some form or other during millions of years. All matter on the earth is used over and over again. Sometimes a given atom of matter appears in different forms in some growing thing, but it eventually goes back into the earth to reappear later in some other form. Rain is only water that has been lifted into the atmosphere from one of the lakes or rivers.

A FAITHFUL READER.

Brushing your hair very thoroughly do a great deal toward bringing a gloss to your hair about 100 strokes each time. There are various skin hleaches especially prepared for whitening the hands you can buy them at any drug store. With your light complexion you ought to be able to wear any color at all. The average weight of a girl nive feet plants and other animals live upon, causing them to grow heavier, have about and morning will do a great deal toward bringing a gloss to your hair very thoroughly every night and morning will do a great deal toward bringing a gloss to your hair very thoroughly every night and morning will do a great deal toward bringing a gloss to your hair very thoroughly every night and morning will do a great deal toward bringing a gloss to your hair very thoroughly every night and morning will do a great deal toward bringing a gloss to your written by some one who asks readers to give their opinion on this subject. Since so many persons have a cynical site of marriage.

With your light complexion you ought to be able to wear any color at all. The average weight of a girl nive feet principle and the result has been a mutual broaders to give their opinion on this subject. Since so many persons have a cynical site of marriage.

What is your idea of marriage with the other enjoy, and the result has been a mutual broaders to give their opinion on this subject. Since so many persons have a cynical site of marriage.

What is your idea of marriage withing the proper mosphere from one of the lakes or rivers or oceans and falls back to the earth again. Snow, of course, is only the rain drops transformed into snow crys-

But the weight of the earth is being enstantly increased by matter which alls upon it from beyond the belt air surrounding it. This new mat-ic consists almost entirely, if not al-sorther, of meteors, large and small, the latter the shooting stars we are all familiar with. At the present time it is caluculated that not fewer than fifteen million meteors of various size: fall into our atmosphere daily. Many of these are so small that the friction produced when they fall into our atinosphere consumes them. These we see in the form of shooting stars, the ed streak being the burning particles. all and are not wholly consumed. One thing thirty-eight tons is preserved the New York Museum of Natural row-Why Is Sea Foam White?

slip of pink ribbonover silver-embroidered silk net. while turquoise streamers loveliness

is shown in this addcontrast and a distinctly Frenchy touch.

sire in her attitude toward marriage.
After four weeks of married life
Joan finds herself jealous of Norman and her old friend Alice Wilson. She asks Norman if there has ever been anything between himself and Alica in the past and he tells her no, but on top of that he stays in town one night to have dinner with Alice.

CHAPTER VII

DURING the long evening while I

Caroline, the daughter of a good family, who, still in her school days, was forming a questionable friendship with a chance acquaintance. The other girl, whose mother traveled through the country, was left in the case of an indifferent aunt and very much to her own devices. Her own devices. Her own devices left frequently to escapades—which made her obvioudly unit company for the sheltered and well-brought-up Caroline. Since the floor is seed it should be low in tone, pany for the sheltered and well-brought-up Caroline. Caroline is father vanished by wenty about it now—they will outgrow each other before they seed out of school."

But they did not. And the sheltered what hand happened it was tool and unknown and unknown and successful and the standards and and unknown and managements of the other girl. When some there were larged unknown and and the standards and an unknown and the standards and unknown and unk the fact that Norman and I had de-little carelessness permitted to go on.

And "bad ends" are the logical containing.

The important developments in life can bleach the slik pure white slik has turned back to apparently insignificant happenings. Many little what will take ink and orange stains againficant happenings. Many little that the slik pure white again again that are harmless in themselves.

The important developments in life will be used to apparently insignificant happenings. Many little what will take ink and orange stains out of a gray canton crepe dress?

The important developments in life will be used to apparently insignificant happenings. Many little what will take ink and orange stains out of a gray canton crepe dress?

The important developments in life will be used to apparently insignificant happenings. Many little what will take ink and orange stains out of a gray canton crepe dress?

The important developments in life will be used to apparently insignificant happenings. Many little what will take ink and orange stains out of a gray canton crepe dress?

The important developments in life will be used to apparently insignificant happenings. Many little what will take ink and orange stains out of a gray canton crepe dress?

The important developments in life to come and which, when taken out, fit what will take ink and orange stains out of a gray canton crepe dress?

At that time I have seen glass baking dishes which do not crack in the heat of the oven and Which, when taken out, fit which when taken out, fit which when taken out of the orange of the course, the Hunters were eager for the course, the Hunters were eager for the orange of the orange of the orange of the course, the Hunters were eager for the orange of the orang to the drawbacks of living in a Hyposulphite of soda is the best rem- town. I went occasionally to Hilton edy for whitening silks. Dissolve a to stay with Margaret or Ruth or Alice, tablespoonful of the crystals in a quart generally when there was a dance at the country club, or a tennis tourna-ment or something of that kind, and of water and wash the slik. Hinse thor-Get an ink cradicator at a drug store for the link spot. Hyposulphite of soda is also excellent for removing orange me. I myself had been brought up stains. Dissolve a teasmoonful of the in the city, where it was virtually instains. It is shown a transported of the crystal's in a quarter cup of water and apply to the stain. If it does not disappear upon the first application repeat the process. appear upon the first application repeat the process. within walking distance of all our Hilton friends.

Now I was sorry that I hadn't given

"In too many instances the wife is extravagant; or perhaps she is a flirt; or her love may be gradually cooling. Sometimes she is a nagging woman and gives him no mental rest or relaxation "On the other hand. I know outrageous men flirts who make their wives so miserable that they are forced to seek the divorce court. When the husband is to blame I have nearly always found that unfaithfulness was the cause. Wives seem able to forgive the habitual drunkard, the spendfurift, the tightwad, but not the man who is unfaithful. "The successful marriages I know of were not based on passionate love. As the years go on, liking and respect deepen into a wonderful tie of deep Husband and wife share every thought and care in common; they are partners in every sense of the word. Their pleasures are shared; also their friends. Oftes they are quite diverse in their tastes, man had mentioned taking the nine fifty-three. If he had, he would be home in little over half an hour. Hope leaped suddenly into my heart, and with it the thought that perhaps after all my vivid imagination had painted things in the blackest colors. Norman might have stayed in town on business. I had no real proof that he was with Alice, and I might easily be wrong in

Vain Regrets

URING the long evening while I sat in my little new home waiting Norman to come home. I thought to go to bed. In novels and stories I had read, the jealous wife always stayed up waiting agonizedly for the return of the prodi-

Il along it would happen.

I regretted one thing, and that was box indispensable.

the fact that Norman and I may we cided to settle in Hilton.

At first it had seemed a delightful ways look so well when served on the arrangement. I had met Norman first talle. Even the dark brown of the at the Hunters. He had gone to case-role looks not so well with delicate Harvard with Jim, and Margaret and thina. I have seen glass baking dishes which do not crack in the heat of the

For names of shops address Woman's Page Editor or phone Walnut 3000 or Main 1601 between the hours of 9 and 5.

Boat Necks

We still find the boat neck, but the boat Is more apt to be a cruiser than a canoe. For, according to the latest dictates, the line is scooped out more deeply in the front and often extends far over the shoulders in a way that recalls the bells of the crinoline period. As to the back, the extension of the line here often amounts to a 1'

IS MARRIAGE A FAILURE?

Write a friendly little note saying that you feel very bad over the estrangement, especially as you had not meant to be rude, so you hope he'll forgive the apparent rudeness and be friends once more. Love an Influence for Good Dear Cynthla — Giancing over your column I chanced to see "Ion's" letter, and I wish to take this opportunity to congratulate him upon a nice and most exceptional interpretation of love. I sincerely believe that he has expressed vividly what has been pent up in the hearts of many a lover and has set a criterion worthy of the highest commendation. How often does one become smitten with the "burning passion" and yet finds himself incapable of words. He feels it, yet cannot express it. Therein is "Ion's" letter a masterplece. White Shoes White Shoes If they are exceedingly dirty or if grease spots show obstinately through the white paste you apply, take a small brush and scrub the shoes thoroughly with soap and cold water, rinsing from writing later to time with the shoes thoroughly with soap and cold water, rinsing from the same presty much the same thing, with certain limitations, it does not follow that straight hair and carefully formed letters delineate the same tuple for whith same person, but these are not characteristics which run parallel. Tomorrow—Round Faces and Round writing its moral significance is tremendous, for when I am sad or downhearted, and when my steps would falter, yet does it smile and points the way to virtue. It is ever a happy recollection and, as Emerson says, "must be drugged with the relish of pain and fear," for he touched the secret of the matter who said of love: "All other pleasures are not worth its pains." Love is the "enameled fire" that makes life worth living.

Spanish Labor

To see the flower and understand its The Wife Cheater By HAZEL DEVO BATCHELOR

Joan Stockbridge marries Norman
Wayne in spite of many warnings from her friends. Norman is the kind of man who has never been known to care for one woman more than a few weeks at a time, while Joan is inclined to be too possessive in her attitude toward marriage. After four weeks of married life Joan finds herself jesious of Norman

After four weeks of married life Joan finds herself jesious of Norman.

"Sparrow" Writes Again

Dear Cynthia—May I say a few words to "One Who Knews"? Thank you.

Have no fear about my not going back to the girl who refused me the kiss, as I am not in the habit of giving up so easily. I almost always go back once anyway so as to give her a chance to reconsider, and I lived up to my custom in this case. I went to see her the next week. Dame Fortune favored me, too, because I got not only one kiss, but a couple. You may see from this that you wasted a lot of admiration on the girl.

I certainly agree with you when you say it is a temptation to give a fellow a kiss when he asks for one. But why shouldn't a girl kiss a fellow? What harm is there in it? None. Every girl knows that a fellow is not serious when he asks for a kies. Why shouldn't a girl kiss a fellow whom she admits she likes and who she says is cute and charming when she will go home and let her pet poodle kiss her? Surely a fellow is several times as good as any dog. And the fellows never mean anything serious by their kisses. "Sparrow" Writes Again

For shame, "Sparrow"! You say you see no harm in girls kissing any boys they meet, and yet the next minute you announce you are tired of the type and wish you could meet some one like "One Who Knows." A bit inconsistent, are you not? Or is it you just cannot help acknowledging you do not approve of laxity in manners and morals?

The work of preparation is ours. The convenience is yours.

A household requirement; a camper's necessity.

ICED The Summer Beverage "Par Excellence"

It's So Refreshing. JUST TRY IT SPILLER & CO., WHOLESALE AGENTS, J SOUTH FRONT STREET, PHILAD PA

WHAT'S WHAT By Helen Decie

It is true that the greater number of weddings are celebrated in April, June and October, but, for all that, marriages take place every month of the year. The spring, autumn and winter weddings differ little in the matter of conventional attire, but the midsummer wedding has laws of its own—tropical laws—governing the clothing worn by the bridegroom, best man and ushers.

At a recent wedding in New Orleans, the bridegroom best man and ushers were white suits—linen or duck—Panter were pearl white, the best man's scarf was striped, and the ushers had scarfs of the brides favorite color—blue. The whole effect was delightfully cool-looking and comfortable in the hot-weather sense of comfort.

| A TURBAN BATHING CAP is a continue to put a little more emphasis on the hasty writing in so far as it shows quickness, vivacity and anima-tions in the hasty writing in so far as it shows quickness, vivacity and anima-tions; but not necessarily in its indication of originality, finesse and dissimution; and this is particularly true if the writing happens to be of that hasty sort in which the letters do not trail off at the end of the word, but in which all of the letters do not trail off at the end of the word, but in which all of the letters in a word are rather poorly formed, consisting more of up and down strokes without much attempt to make one letter look different from another.

But though curly hair and hasty writing indicate pretty much the same thing, with certain limitations, it does not follow that straight hair and carefully formed letters delineare the same thing, with certain limitations, it does not follow that straight hair and carefully formed letters delineare the same thing, with certain limitations, it does not follow that straight hair and carefully formed letters delineare the same thing, with certain limitations, it does not follow that straight hair and carefully formed letters delineare the same thing. The bridegroom's sit is such a careful provided the careful provided the careful provided the carefu masterplece.

Like "Ion." I keep myself good because of a great love that has entered into my life. The passion has become my ideal. At its altar I worship, and Spanish Labor Spanish girls who make the famous fans of Valencia are paid about thirty-five cents a day.

A picnic isn't a picnic unless Wilmar Peanut Butter goes along for

So Different wiches. From the Ordinary

Read Your Character By Digby Phillips

Curly Hair and Hasty Writing Would you say that curly hair and hasty writing indicated the same sort of character?

To a large extent they do. Curly hair, you may remember from a previous article, denotes in a minor way a temperament that is quick and vivacious. And the indication of hasty writing, which is that kind of writing in which the writer forms well only the first two or three letters of a word and then lets the rest of them trail off indefinitely, indicates among other things the same characteristics.

So, if you happen to know that your hasty writer also has curly hair, you have a very good reason in reading his character to put a little more emphasis on the hasty writing in so far as it shows quickness, vivacity and animation; but not necessarily in its indication of originality, finesse and dissimplation. And this is particularly true of up and down strokes without much attempt to make one letter look different from another.

But though curly hair and hasty writing indicate pretty much the same thing, with certain limitations, it does not follow that straight hair and carefully formed letters delineate the same types of mind. It is quite possible, of course, that the straight hair and the carefully formed letters may be characteristic of the same person, but these are not characteristics which run paragraphs.

POMPEIAN OLIVE OIL

Sold Everywhere

How to make "Surprise" Salad

Make it tonight cabbage and chop fine; add ½ cup of chopped pimentos,½ cup chopped sweet pickles, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup vinegar, 3 tablespoonfuls French's Mustard, ½ teaspoonful salt. Mix thoroughly and serve on lettuce leaves.

This mustard will help you prepare many other delightful "surprises"in salads and other dishes. A little booklet of recipes comes in every carton. Try them.

IMPRICER

"You'll taste the difference!"

Ever had a cup?

29° per lb.

American Stores all over Phila, and throughout Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland

Always fresh-roasted